THE GREAT INVOCATION

From the point of Light
within the Mind of God Let light stream forth into the minds of men.
Let Light descend on Earth.

From the point of Love
within the Heart of God
Let love stream forth into the hearts of men.
May Christ return to Earth.

From the centre where the
Will of God is known
Let purpose guide the little wills of men–
The purpose which the Masters know and serve.

From the centre which we call the race of men
Let the Plán of Love and Light work out.
And may it seal the door
where evil dwells.

Let Light and Love and Power restore the Plan on Earth.

FOREST OR TREES?

As we progress down the road to self-development, many of us lose sight of the forest and are only concerned with the indidivdual. We have appropriated some small fragment of the truth and/or belief and honstely, sincerly, passionately and mistakenly believe it to be the sum total and the completeness of all that is to come and of all light and wisdom!

Such people are not hard to find, as most of us fall into this niche. The new age forest is full of them. In fact, how to hide from them is more the problem. They come from all walks of life, the poor, the rich, the uneducated, those who are highly educated, the superticous, the scientists, professional people, church members, religious leaders, and even the metaphysicians or occultists. We wonder where it will all end!

The more we mingle with the people who see only the trees, the more we begin to wonder if its some kind of disease. Have all these people had some kind of brain disorder, that limits rational thought? They are so sure that the one facet of truth that they have come across is the one and only way to go. Nothing else can hold a candle to what they have found; theirs is the only truth. And if you come up with another idea, heaven help you!

What is behind all of this frantic seeking for the one truth, the only truth and then finding only part of it and thinking that you have found it all? Whom shall we believe? Who is right? these questions seem to go unanswered. Why do some always try and push their truth on others?

Each soul is an individual, and not everyone is going to find the answer from the same teacher. Each teacher has his place. Each student is progressing at his onw pace. Each has come to learn-to find his won "self". Each soul is evolving never the same, always changing and growing. What is right for one is not right for another. If you have found your niche in life, even if it is only for a short period of time, learn what you can from this period in your life, but don't stop there. Learn to go to your own "I am" source and find the truth within that area. Don't fall into this general feeling of wandering and seeking only what some one else has found to be truth. Find your own. Learn to look around and seek to find the total answer or forest, not just one small tree that at the time might seem to be the answer. Become "aware" that there is a forest.

Would you conduct your personal business attairs the way you conduct your spiritual life? I doubt it. People seem to go crazy when they get on the path to spiritual development. They lose sight of sane reasoning. When you buy a house you find out every thing you can about the financing, the property, the living conditions. But yet when you plan for your own soul, you jump in where "angels would fear to tread" and think nothing of it. Then also condemn your neighbor when he does not go along with you.

Learn to look for that forest when you plan your next spiritual move. Don't take everything for granted. Don't believe everything that you are told. Learn to tell the trees apart. Then we will have a beautiful forest.

INTERVIEW:

Ernest Villanueva Jr.

"STOCK MARKET CRASH BY END 1974 PSYCHOLOGICAL IMPLICATIONS ON AMERICANS WORSE THAN THE 30'S"

Our interview this month is with Ernest Villanueva, Jr., a man who has been noted as America's most accurate psychic. His home is Miami, Florida. However he will be on the west coast soon. He has a strange point of view for a psychic—he says he does not believe in ESP. He doesn't believe in extra sensory perception because he doesn't believe there is anything extra about it, and one of his major missions in life is to teach as many people as he can how to develop as much of their mind abilities as possible. Ernest does private psychic consultations dealing with anything that a person needs to know to help with the everyday problems of life. He also does business consulting, and teaches seminars on Prosperity, believing that anyone can be as prosperous as they wish. Ernest is 38 years old, with a background of communications and public relations for Exxon Corporation.

H & N: Ernest, you call yourself a psychic professional. What do you mean by that?

EV: Perhaps the best way to answer that is by a relevant comparison. Everyone has heard the term "professional golfer". He is the one who is on tour, who plays the tournaments—the Jack Nickalaus, the Arnold Palmer. And then there is also the individual who is a golf professional who is interested not only in tours, but in golf courses, in marketing, golf clothing, in the operation of country clubs, in the making of films, the teaching of golf. It's an individual who is interested in every facit of the industry and who has knowledge of all its dimensions.

H & N: What do you do as a psychic professional?

EV: A psychic professional handles every aspect or is involved literally in every aspect of the so-called occult or awareness field. I am involved in private and business consultations involving personal and corporate problems, stock market, medical diagnosis, which is one of the really interesting aspects of the Work. I lecture, give seminars, write, including a newspaper column, do radio shows, plus television and college programs.

H & N: What do you deal with in these lectures and seminars?

EV: A variety of subjects. One that people are most interested in is how they can develop their own HSP, or Higher Sensory Perception. And in this I get into actual demonstrations, and discussions of what it's all about, and how they may develop this and what it means to have it developed, and how it can be used. We discuss some of the responsibilities of HSP and the areas in which this increased psychic awareness can be utilized for the benefit of the individual. I also talk about astrology, numerology, palmistry, the latest advances in the parapsychology research field, some aspects of the so-called mystical arts, such as magic and witchcraft, what is happening in the commercial aspects of the psychic field. There is an entire market that is involved here, and, just like the golf professional, I am a psychic professional.

H & N: As much psychic work as you've done with business corporations and business consultation, you must have some kind of feeling about the economy now and what you see in the future. What are your general feelings of the economy between now and the beginning of next year?

EV: I think that before the end of this year the stock market will crash and that the country is going to go into a severe recession. I think that the cumulative effects of the recession are going to be greater than they were in the 1930's.

H & N: Do you mean a recession or a depression?

EV: A depression-a depression, very definitely.

H & N: A real, full blown depression?

EV: Yes, the Dow Jones stock averages for example will go - they're now about 860 or 870 - and they'll go through 600 and there will be at least a 250 almost 300 point drop.

H & N: When you say the psychological implications will be greater on the American public, what do you mean?

EV: Well, in the 1930's the people were still in large percentage living in rural areas, on farms, they were used to co-operating with one another. They were used to having one car, today its a matter of not only two cars but three and a boat. The higher you are, the more difficult the descent is in terms of economic lifestyles so they just simply didn't fall as far in the 1930's as they will this time.

H & N: How long do you think this depression will last?

EV: Until July of 1976, during the time of the country's birth anniversary, it will literally experience a re-birth.

H & N: That's our 200th year. What do you see ahead for this country as happening for its 2nd centennial?

EV: For its 2nd centennial, I think that in 1976, that there will be one of the worst natural tragedies in the history of the United States. T think that in the middle west, there will be literally be a split in the country, it's an earthquake and then some; a natural calamity. In fact, I think that some of the things that Edgar Cayce predicted will begin happening in 1976.

H & N: What do you see politically?

EV: Politically, I think that the democrats will have sweep in 1976, and I think you have to be a real psychic to figure that out. I think that the US is going to culminate in a situation that I predicted a long time ago that had to do with the usurping of power by the Congress. I think the Congress has already gone very far in removing some of the power from the executive branch and now their next target will be the Supreme Court, and, ultimately, where this is going to go after they attack the Supreme Court thoroughly is getting into rewriting of the Constitution. By 1976, one of the major issues is going to be the reconstructing of this nation of ours.

H & N: Do you see the deaths of internationally known personalitites?

EV: Within, the next two years, I see the death of Colonel Kadafy in Libya, I think they will make a serious attempt on his life.

H & N: You made several predictions regarding the Patricia Hearst case. What were they to this date, and what do you see ahead?

EV: I decided to take this into sleep with me, as I do when I have worked with the police in the past. I asked to see the truth in this matter. I saw Patricia Hearst literally playing ball with the SLA members, as if she were watching a softball game. And she was participating on a very friendly open basis. She was obviously one of the team members. I interpreted this to mean that she was with them, and shortly thereafter published this fact. In working with this thing later, some of the other predictions that I made involved the violent end of the SLA, but this would not include Patricia Hearst.

H & N: All right, while we are in the area of psychic predictions, I would like to try an experiment. As you know Edgar Mitchell is very seriously involved in parpasychology, psychic phenomena in research and I imagine in experience. I would like you to do a prediction about what you see in the future for Edgar Mitchell within the next year.

EV: I think Edgar Mitchell is going to make a movie about healing and the psychic, and it's going to be a documentary film with national distribution.

MEDICINE POWER

BRAD STEIGER

There is only one Great Spirit, but because of cultural differences man may apprehend Him in various ways and may receive the sacred transfer of His secret name in different symbols. Because there is only one Great Spirit, all men are brothers, all women are sisters, and all those who achieve an attitude of humility, a respect for all living things, a sense of harmony with their environment, a balance between the sacred and the mundane, may reach out and touch the Great Spirit and receive His strength.

Although there is but one Great Spirit, there may be prescribed methods of communicating with Him that function better in one area than another. There may be unique modes of enlightenment which have been bestowed upon certain peoples and places in order to accomplish a more vital and meaningful realization of Divine Energy within the confines of certain spiritually delineated borders. When the European invaded North America, he may well have upset the continent's cosmological, as well as its biological, ecology.

Because of the European's haste to conquer, to civilize, to capitalize, and to convert, he did not take the time to understand the native people's social and spiritual customs, nor did he slacken the pace of plow and Progress long enough to consider the possibility that the native people may have taught him essential lessons on how best to survive in spirit, as well as in body, on the North American continent.

The Great Spirit's 2,000-year-old message to the Europeans had become so distorted by dogma, eroded by ecclesiastical edicts, and battered by bloody reformations and counter-reformations that the storm-lashed soul of the whiteman had developed a spiritual anesthetic that numbed his sensitivity to any religious expression that had not been pressed in the familiar cross-shaped mold cherished by his fathers.

The sacred words given to the whiteman by the Great Spirit had long since been adapted to justify an insatiable greed for gold and the establishment of earthly kingdoms. When black-robed missionaries sought to convert the Amerindians, they too often were able to hear only the self-righteous echo of their own sermons, which had become as standardized as any other product of the Industrial Revolution. Centuries of rationalization for crimes against brothers had produced a new gospel of the Great Spirit for the whiteman—a gospel that preached a Manifest Destiny which must be realized at any price. Tragically, the redman became a sacrificial offering on the gore-stained altar of Progress.

In order to quiet the troubled consciences of the more sensitive homesteaders, soldiers, and traders, it was widely taught that the redmen worshiped a Great Spirit different from that of the whiteman's God. The redman's Great Spirit was said to be inferior, bloody, savage, dark, a pagan god that must die along with any claim which the redmen might have on the land.

Although many historians and anthropologists believe that the native people buried their god as well as their hearts at Wounded Knee and that the contest between the whiteman's religion and the redman's medicine was decided along with the issues of territories and treaties, the last decade has seen a dramatic rebirth of the strength and spirit of Amerindian magic. The old ways and traditions have always been carefully nurtured and quietly cherished, but medicine power has returned in a manner that reveals our Amerindian heritage as laden with spiritual insights fraught with special meaning for our new age of ever-rising awareness.

The sacrificial blood that was spilled has begun to dry. Collective guilt and expanding consciousness has produced a generation who may at last be willing to give peace and love a chance. The essential self within each human may be explored without apology. Thoughtful men and women can see that the psycho-religious system of the various Amerindian people was centuries ahead of the whiteman's psychology, and that the shamans, the sacred doctors, had explored inner space to an extent not yet dreamed of by the invaders who crushed the redmen with technological tools of death and debasement.

PSYCHIC..RESEARCH AND..HUMANITY'S.. FUTURE....

CAPT. EDGAR MITCHELL

Man fancies himself the most intelligent creature on earth. Yet no other animal commits the atrocities and stupidities that humans do. It has brought us near the brink of global destruction. A few more generations of the current conditions--warfare, pollution, wasting natural resources, overpopulation, mass starvation, hatred, intolerance, inequality--and the evolutionary development of the species will end with extinction.

I became acutely aware of how desperate the situation is as I gazed at the planet from space. It gave me a new perspective that goes beyond just the visual dimension. It showed me as no other event in my life has, how limited a perspective people have of their lives and of the planet. It altered my consciousness by showing me directly--noetically--that life in the universe is not just an accident based on random processes. Everything in the universe is interconnected and interdependent. The universe has meaning and direction--an unseen dimension behind the visible creation that gives it conscious, intelligent design and that gives life purpose. My experience leads me to believe that consciousness is the unifying principle of our universe.

Because of this I am now involved full time in the study of consciousness, usually called noetics, (from the Greek nous, "mind"). My interest in consciousness research began about eight years ago when I first looked at parapsychology. I was quite skeptical--and ignorant--about the whole field. But to be frank, I was actually searching for concepts that would explain and give meaning to life--holistic concepts that I had not found during 25 years of searching in religion, science and philosophy.

So I started looking into extrasensory perception, psychokinesis, spirit communication and other phenomena. To my surprise, disbelief about the validity of these occurences began melting away. I had spent years learning the objective methods of science. As one dedicated to evaluating on the basis of empirical evidence, it was impossible for me to avoid the implications of the evidence on psychic research.

Decades of meticulous, carefully documented work by competent professionals make it obvious to anyone with an open mind that people have faculties associated with--but not limited to--their known sensory systems. These faculties are natural and trainable, but they cannot be fully explained in terms of the physical/mechanical models that science has evolved over the last century. I wanted to know more about this aspect of human potential because it suggested that we are more than the lump of flesh we call a body. It indicated there is a dimension that transcends us as persons and takes us into the transpersonal.

Therefore, parapsychology and transpersonal psychology come together in this thought: if consciousness can operate independently of the body, perhaps it can also exist independently of the body. In other words, survival after death.

That, of course, takes us right back into religion and philosophy. I am pleased about it, too, because as I look at the field, there now seem to be sound reasons for religious belief--some rational basis for explaining why people throughout history have persisted in claiming a spiritual foundation to the physical world. At last there seems to be a testable answer emerging to challenge those who say that the meaning of life is death. From my point of view, the meaning of death is transition through an alteration of consciousness to continued life.

The lines of evidence derived from pioneering work in psychic research are coming together with those from religious studies, especially Eastern religions, with studies in altered states of consciousness, with studies of the fields generated by living organisms, with quantum physics, biofeedback, the neurosciences, general systems theory, and paraphysics. All these apparently separate disciplines are converging in their farthest frontiers to provide a holistic picture of the universe.

This convergence of science and religion, of objective rationality and subjective intuition, is noetics. It excites me because I am a scientific generalist, not wed to any one discipline. It suggests to me that the nature of mind and consciousness is the fundamental force of the universe. It also shows the need for a holistic, multidisciplinary approach to research in this area. If we are ever to understand ourselves and begin to solve the problems we have created on the planet because of our ignorance, we must study the relationship of mind to brain/body, using the full range of scientific and humanistic disciplines.

We must also avoid the lure of using the new knowledge in destructive or unethical ways. The potential of psychic energy can be compared to that of nuclear energy. And its effects on life can be even more profound. The energy is essentially neutral and can be used either beneficially or destructively, depending on the consciousness of those who control it. As with science in general, the question of morality and ethics in psychic research must be squarely faced before we go too far.

The goal should not be to become a superpsychic but rather to develop the whole person in all his potential--to expand human capacity for awareness, love and creativity. In that way people will find personal fulfillment, and live in harmony with other people and the planet.

As I survey the challenge facing humanity today, I see only one answer: a change of consciousness. Man must rise from his present ego-centered consciousness to sense his intimate participation in the planet's functioning, and beyond that, in the functioning of the universe. Man must find universal attunement, starting with himself and proceeding outward through his relations with other people and with the environment to his relation with the cosmos. Otherwise we will continue to move deeper into chaos and crisis toward our own destruction. I believe it is as simple as that.

To help bring about a change of consciousness, we need to study the nature of consciousness in all its manifestations. Noetics, especially in its aspect of psychic research, can play an important role in helping others make the same discovery I made in outer space.

Like mystical and religious experiences, psychic experiences can help a person become more aware and, when properly developed, more selfless.

Like mystical and religious experiences, psychic experiences can help a person become more aware and, when properly developed, more selfless. Psychic research has already put us in a position where it appears that science's basic concept of man and the universe must be revised to some degree. Our concepts of energy, time, space, mind and life are all being challenged. Because of this new light on the nature of man and his relation to the cosmos, science may have to divest itself not only of some deeply cherished "facts" but also of the materialistic paradigm on which it, and much of civilization, is based.

Psychic research can be a key for unlocking, in objectively-oriented thinking, the missing experiential component with which to expand awareness. It can play an important role in helping people become conscious of their participation in the miracle of creation. It can be a major element in the long-sought formula for enriching human mind, transforming society and generally aiding nature in the great work of evolving consciousness.

INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION COUNCIL

Leland Stewart

Uni-Com Guide (now HERE & NOW) readers have probably seen mention of the International Cooperation Council, either regarding programs in Northridge or major events such as the annual Festival in January of the recent "Healing the Whole Person" Conference at UCLA. I'd like to take this opportunity to clarify what the ICC is, refer to a few of its activities, and invite your participation.

ICC is a council of almost 150 new age organizations whose rallying point is "fostering the emergence of a new universal man and civilization based upon unity in diversity among all peoples". Uni-Com Foundation is one of those organizations. The Council is designed to include all types of groups that are working toward the new civilization; thus a variety of educational, scientific, religious, and cultural groups make up the total body, which now are from all continents (Africa is about to be represented by a very active group which has recently been in touch with world headquarters).

The work of ICC really begins when these organizations discover ways of working together and thus strengthening their common interests. In Southern California this somehow began in 1965 during International Cooperation Year, which was initiated by the United Nations for non-governmental organizations. Now it is beginning in many parts of the country, and to some extent in other countries as well. The San Francisco Bay Area ICC began about three years ago and is now moving toward regular programming as well as annual participation in a Festival of Humanity (June 2nd this year).

ICC activities presently include: (1) an annual world Festival in January (So. Calif.) plus a number of area festivals as of this year, (2) an annual directory of cooperating and ICC-related organizations, (3) regular meetings related to the work of the different organizations and the wide variety of new age developments, (4) publication of a semi-annual magazine called "The Cooperator" and a monthly world headquarters newsletter "Spectrum", (5) beginnings of a New Age Institute for cultivating the educational work in terms of classes and workshops, (6) a second Universal Development Center (Marin County) has just been dedicated for forwarding the religious dimension of the work, (the initial one is at world headquarters, and (7) the first Healing Center for the Whole Person has been formed and is progressing rapidly.

If you wish to inquire further or to be on the ICC mailing list, write:

The return of medicine power has fostered New Age Amerindian prophets who are speaking to contemporary youth. Ancient Amerindian metaphysics are influencing everything from our young people's popular music, their hair styles and manner of dress, to their personal spiritual philosophies. Contemporary Amerindian mystics are demonstrating that the medicine of the Great Spirit can soar beyond science to present modern man with a system of relevant spiritual guidance for anyone who will learn to walk in balance, to live in harmony with Nature and with the Cosmos.

May we be granted the wisdom and the vision to comprehend the spiritual gifts which our red brothers have to bestow upon those of us who share their land and those of us who wish to share their world.

H & N: Are you specifying the media? Do you mean for television or theater?

EV: Yes, for television, and possibly for the theater.

H & N: What do you know about psychic work being done behind the Iron Curtain?

EV: From what I've read and from my own psychic impressions I would say that they're probably 25 years ahead of us in this work. Easterners have a greater innate respect for psychic ability even though they claim this is just being done for scientific reasons. Their intuitive approach to this is greater than ours.

H & N: As a psychic professional, what would you say your goals are, what do you want to do?

EV: You mean, besides making a million dollors?

H & N: Is that one of your goals, to make a million dollars? Do you think that is the correct way to use the gift that you have been given?

EV: Let me back up a little for perspective. One of the things that I serve to demonstrate with my work and with my seminars is that we have control of our own lives and that we have great areas of understanding that can provide an internal security for people, not only internal security but financial security. One of the most frequent questions is how come you don't have a million dollars? And my answer to that is, up until now I haven't had a reason to have a million dollars.

H & N; But you do have a reason now?

EV: Yes, One of the things that I would like to begin and to fund is an educational center for businessmen and community people where they could go to get into development of their psychic abilities, including management development courses, creativity courses, research, original research into such things as the creative factor, psychic healing, astrology -- sort of an aquarian university.

H & N: I get the feeling that you are more interested in teaching than you are in making predictions or fortune-telling.

EV: I don't think there's a real difference. I think making predictions is one way of utilizing this awareness. In my classes, my students learn to do this as part of their exercises.

H & N: What do you feel that you have to offer that is unique from anyone else?

EV: Simply myself. I think every individual is unique in his approach to matter. However I deal with universal subject matter.

H & N: Where was the title of most accurate psychic created? Do you know where it first appeared?

EV: It appeared first in the national newspaper "Midnight" and other newspapers and radio-TV people have continued to use it.

H & N: You seem to be much less cosmically oriented than any psychics that I have dealt with.

EV: On the contrary, I think that, if you look at it another way, it is a greater mystique because you simply accept, you don't have to make a big show. There are levels of awareness, but those levels of awareness are not any more or less human. It's sort of like the story of the mustard seed. When you accept something, you accept it. You don't have to convince other people about it, you accept it and you operate on that basis.

H & N: If you were going to give some general psychic advise to the readers for the year or for the rest of their lives, what would you tell them?

EV: That everyone can go from the level of thinking to the level of knowing in terms of how they relate to the world around them. As they move into this consciousness that is available to everyone, they will become aware that the universe is already perfect, that, as the kids say, the Creator really had it together that the only limitations that exist are in our view of things, and this is why things will appear to be negative or tragic at one time, and, then three weeks later, you look at the same thing, and you say, "Gee, that's the only thing that could have happened.", because you understand why---you see it as part of an overall life plan. What I'm saying is that things not only happen for a reason, they happen for a good reason. If we can accept that, that's the first step we can take to understanding how that fits into our life plan, and understanding that we are all divine beings, that we're not people trying to become spiritual, that we are already spiritual beings with an unlimited human potential and that this potential can be fully realized in every aspect of our lives. Here is where the words of Jesus Christ are so appropriate in talking about the things that he did--about the miracles and so forth, because he said that what I can do, you can do also, and greater things also can you do. And I think this is true. I think the human being is a fantastic creation, but a very integral part of a fantastic universe. We are all together already.

Here is a book as complex and individual as you are. It's not light reading because it's your life, your astral biography, from the details of your inner feelings to your outermost ambitions.

Sun-Moon polarity, as the connection between conscious drives and unconscious feelings, is discussed at great length.

The ascending sign and its rulership position is interpreted as your personality, as your approach to life. Each house of the zodiac is described in terms of planets, rulerships and aspects.

This is not a vague report based on generalities. From your exact time, day, year and place of birth our IBM 370-155 sorts out 24,000,000 bits of astrological information. The result is a 12,000 word personal biography revealing secrets that even your closest friends would not dare talk about.

How is this possible? An astrologer does basically the same thing, but it takes longer and costs more. The computer is simply a memory bank. Only the information that applies to you and only you is drawn from the bank.

All this is yours for only $10. It's the best buy there is in computerized horoscopes. Plus a money back guarantee if your Astral Portrait isn't what you expected.

Think of it as a reference book, to be studied from time to time. We've got the best available, anywhere, at anytime...and at any price.
